Header: About

Text: Design is about communication. The world is rapidly changing and new methods are needed to communicate more effectively. We work closely with clients to identify their audiences and find the best method to convey their messages. By using print, advertising and web mediums, we create artwork that fulfills our clients needs and strengthens their identity.

We are dedicated to using environmentally friendly design practices whenever possible. This means working with local printers to use recycled or sustainable sourced papers and inks when creating print pieces. It also includes offering creative digital solutions instead using traditional printing. This approach often reaches a larger audience and ends up being more cost effective for our clients.

Carol Tompkins Design loves working with clients to create successful solutions to any design project.
